

Vanguard Speedloader

User manual

The Vanguard Speedloader is easily operated with a rotary knob and oled-display. Make sure the battery is charged and connected. Then turn on the Speedloader by pushing the knob once. The start-up screen is shown and the battery status is displayed. After, you are in the menu.

Rotate the knob to scroll through the menu. When the system is locked, indicated by the lock symbols, it can be unlocked by navigating the menu to "Unlock" and press once. Now the device is ready to use.

By scrolling up, a preset can be selected. To change the preset value, press and hold the knob till the value is highlighted. Rotate the knob to set the desired value. Press once to confirm or hold to reset to the previous value.

To load a magazine, make sure it's empty and put it on the discharge tube (red) if necessary. Now place the magazine on the output tube (black) and hold in securely into place. Choose the desired preset and press once to start loading. The screen will countdown the exact amount of BB's and stops automatically when reaching zero. Loading can be cancelled at all times by pressing the knob again.

When you are ready to store the Speedloader, it is recommended to put it in to "Lock" mode. Do this by scrolling to the "Sleep/Lock" item, then press and hold the knob to lock.

The device will go in to sleep mode after 5 idle minutes or can be put in to sleep manually via the "Sleep/Lock" item and pressing once. From sleep the device can be woken up by pressing the knob and is immediately ready to use. After one hour the device will automatically go to a lock state.

Messages

PRESSURE LIMIT is shown when the magazine is loaded with too much force. The Speedloader has stopped automatically to prevent damage. This occurs when the magazine was not completely empty or its maximum capacity was reached. Check both and try again by pressing once and resetting the notification.

RUNOUT OF BBS is shown when no BB's are supplied to the pump. Check if there are enough bb's available in the ammo box and press once to reset the notification.
